

Write up on “Systematic Approach to Training – areas of concern”

The starting point of the course would be identifying the areas of concern in the Systematic Approach to Training (SAT), which generally informs the current training practices in the country. The training scenario in the country, as in the rest of the world, is fast changing with trainers switching over to more and more learner centred methods from the trainer centred ones. Obviously, therefore the thrust in our course would be on experiential learning. Based on the experience that you have in the field of training it should not be difficult for you to prepare a write up on “Systematic Approach to Training – areas of concern”. What we are looking forward to is a short and crisp paper of 300-400 words and not more, on your experience with the current training practices in the country. You may even choose to make it in bulleted form.
